

As an Account & Administrator with over 3 years of experience in the field, I acquired excellent customer service, good communication, organizing records, attention to detail, analytical and problem solving skills with the able to work under pressure. I also communicated with people from diverse backgrounds, amiable, flexible, able to work autonomously, multi-tasker, punctual, honest, and compassionate.

I was responsible for responding to customer enquiries via email, phone and social media. I provided excellent customer experiences to all internal and external customers. Furthermore, I attained and exceeded KPI's by giving minimum of 15 accounts per day. I acquired ability to maintain a high level of alertness and professionalism when responding to support needs, requests and queries. I also attained adequate ability to close the sale, handle objections and cross selling. I created and maintained a good relationship with a various range of different customers.

Before discussing the advantages of living in Northern Territory, I would like to mention that I recently moved to Darwin and living in Stuart Park which is actually 5 minutes away from city center. So far, I have visited to Casurina shopping centre as well as restaurants like The Wharf, Lolas, Exotic, Cullen Bay, Eat a Pizza, etc. I have also been clubbing to places like Discovery, Throb and Monsoons.

More than 200,000 people living in the Northern Territories and the region is populated densely as compared to the complete population of Spain. The capital of Northern Territories is Darwin and it had significant cultural, economic, and diplomatic ties with the South-East Asia. There is an adequate relationship of the city with Asia because of geographical position and it operates as a trade centre among the two continents.

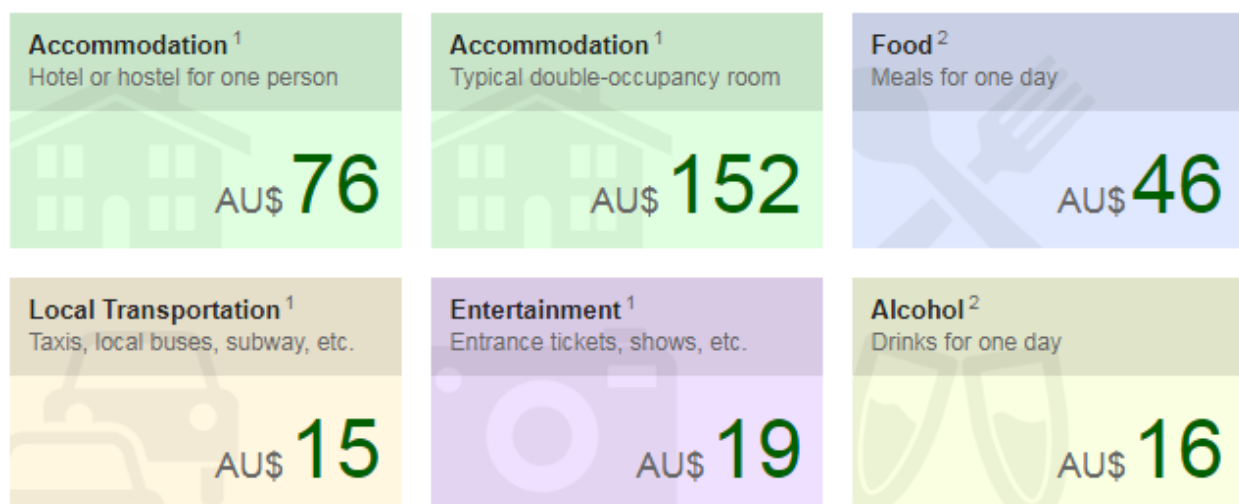

The relationship with Asian continent help well in gaining adequate exposure and boosting the economy of Northern Territory.

I obtained the median weekly rental price in Darwin for a three-bedroom house which is 480$ and for one bedroom unit, it is 310$. The transportation cost in the Northern Territory is also effective as it is the first region in Australia for offering free bus travels to all students. Also, there are frequent buses routed among Darwin and other central regions during peak times as well as on weekends and at night [1].

There are various shopping malls in Northern Territory with retail stores inclusion for the daily groceries along with mandatory day-to-day activities.

The average meal cost in Darwin is AU$46 per day. It also varies well based on the person's spending habit. The average meal cost is around AU$18 when dining out and this is for single person. The cost of breakfast is bit cheaper than other meals. The food price in sit-down restaurants are higher than street food prices or fast food prices.

The taxi ride cost in Darwin is significantly higher than public transportation. A person typically spend AU$15 per person, per day on local transportation in the region [2].

There is a decent tropical region maintained in the Northern Territories with the dry and wet seasons when maintaining the average temperature in the entire year. The Darwin's wet season is mainly characterized from higher humidity, storms and monsoonal rains. The average temperatures typically range from 25 – 32 degrees with humidity level to past 80 percent. The region's average annual rainfall is 1800mm and according to research conducted, January is the wettest month. The beautiful time of the year are the months of January and February. The landscape typically refreshes with sunny days and afternoon storms. The spectacular lighting storms season is for the month of October to December and TO BE CONTINUED
